There may be a modicum of truth in the fact part of the charge and the last. However, there are extensive circumstances. The fact that for a period of five years a large part of the province was, for the practical purpose of making a living, literally a desert, needs no comment.
The one year during this period, 1932, when Nature proved temporarily kind, saw Alberta farmers compelled to accept prices that reached an all-time low in the wheat market records. That this was due to monetary exchange is an explanation, but not a reason that's another story; the result, however, was the farmers, so far from paying off lost indebtedness, were further indebted to the bank that crop. Then, too, the period mentioned coincided with a decided advance in the use of power machinery, which accentuated the already diminishing demand for farm labor, consequently swelling the monetary onerous. And it is just the reality of the various governing bodies to shoulder this burden of relief, to a great extent, has led to unbalanced legislation, which causes one another feature in the matter of government finance: the social services.
Looking back thirty, or even only twenty years, it is not surprising that the province and comparing those days with those of the last decade, it can easily be recognized where large amounts of money have been incurred, but where large amounts of the money were necessary to maintain them have fallen. Today we will say this human provision as Old Age Pensions, Mothers' Allowances, the Municipal Hospitals, are included and should be included because of expense, but it should be clearly recognized that providing for these modernizations, it is necessary to pay for them.

No government pandering to the opinion of voters will lift the
